

SPONSORS' SEMINAR

The Fair Work Act: The first 12 months

The commencement of the Fair Work Act changes, again, fundamental aspects of Australian labour law. While the Fair Work Act is structured more elegantly than its predecessor, there are already many questions about how it will operate in practice. An insight into the minds of the drafters is a uniquely valuable way to come to grips with these questions. We are therefore delighted that Ms Natalie James, Chief Counsel of the Workplace Relations Legal Group for the Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations, is our speaker for the next sponsors' seminar.

Natalie James has been Chief Counsel of the Workplace Relations Legal Group for DEEWR since July 2006, having worked in the Group since 2000. During this time, she has taken a leading role in the drafting of the Work Choices legislation, the Independent Contractors Act, the Fairness Test reforms and the Fair Work Act. Natalie has also worked in a variety of other roles within Government, including at the ACCC and for a number of Parliamentary committees.
